

It is imperative that senior executives use their voices to engage and generate interest. Executive voices must readily be able to establish authority and credibility, hold attention, build effective business relationships, convince their public and make their messages stick.

Far too often, there is only one chance to deliver a lasting impact. Why waste this vital opportunity to engage, convince and inspire others?

By exploring voice mechanics and applying their unique vocal capacity, anxious, dogmatic, reluctant, monotonous and verbose speakers all learn how to shine in spoken word contexts and business environments.

‘Your Voice. Your Competitive Edge.
Each Time You Speak.’

Voice & Word offers individual, 100% customised voice coaching to leaders, managers, brand strategists, entrepreneurs; in fact any person who must influence action and promote change through spoken words.

Because each voice is different, Voice & Word programs are anchored, via principles in voice and spoken word expression, to the particular context of business presentation and communication that applies.

Following an initial analysis of the executive’s individual vocal style, one-to-one sessions are delivered each month. Monthly sessions are supported with on-going assessments and telephone coaching. Typically, programs run for 3-4 months. Executives work directly with experienced voice practitioner, Sandra Baigel.

Your assistance remains invaluable. I now think about the impact I want to make each time ... and before.. I speak.
